MADRID REPORTS SPANISH SQUADRON

REACHES SANTIAGO DE CUBA WITHOUT ACCIDENT.

Whereabouts of American Squadrons Yet Unknown--News of Bombardment of Santiago De Cuba Received With Some Reserve at Washington.

Washington, May 19. With every disposition on the part of the executive to make the present war short, sharp and decisive it is beginning to be realized that the shortcomings of our military service are so many that delays are inevitable and that much more work will be necessary to put the nation in efficient fighting shape.

Every day brings forth some weak spot that has to be strengthened or some hidden defect, such as the discovery at the late moment that every regular army officer who accepted a volunteer appointment would forfeit his commission in the regular army and so become liable to be left out of the service entirely at the end of the war.

Few officers cared to risk their future in that way, so a rush was made towards Congress to secure the necessary corrective legislation.

Again, it has been found that the equipment of the army, small as it is, in comparison with the great Army of the rebellion, is badly lacking.

Nearly a month after the formal declaration of war, the war department is just purchased a number of shelter tents, and it has been secured the hammocks that experts say are essential to existence in Cuba.

DELAY INEVITABLE.

These preparations involve delay so that it is not improbable that in spite of the herculean efforts of the officers of the army, no positive start has yet been made by any land force on the part of the army that causes the campaign to drag in its inception for the navy department and unprepared that it stood ready at a moment's notice to furnish convoys for the troops transports, provided they were started from one point.

Gen. Miles had an interview this afternoon with Capt. Crowninshield, chief of the navigation bureau, and it is surmised, but this very subject will be under discussion.

The order was issued that Gen. Miles with his staff was to leave Washington tonight for Tampa, but this again proved to be premature.

COST TO MAINTAIN ARMY.

To maintain the army of 200,000 men for six months will cost $30,000,000 according to estimates prepared by paymaster General Stanton, and the leading officials are beginning to fear that hostilities may run along beyond this period. The reason is the growing conviction of the part of some of the officers that they must not reckon on any substantial assistance from the Cubans rallying to the campaign, and moreover in the next be Spaniards in Cuba in their strongest sphere, that of the defensive.

THE FRENCH CONSENT.

Naval authorities are relieved of a good deal of embarrassment by the consent of the French authorities at Martinique to allow the scouting vessel Harvard to remain in St. Pierre until her repairs are completed. It was at first announced that she would be allowed only a week to stay and at the end of that time would be forced out to risk attack at the hands of some unhappy Spanish cruiser or torpedo boat.

NAVY PROCEEDINGS.

Work on the three monitors, Malopho, Canonicus and Manhattan at League Island has advanced so far that the department expects to have them in service within a week or two. They have been supplied with tubulous boilers in place of the rusted out boilers they have carried since the war. One very useful quality of the new boilers was found to be the possibility of passing the small pieces of which it is composed, through the smoke pipe here, thus avoiding the tearing up of the decks and shorten ing the time required for the work fully one half. These monitors will be an available addition to the coast defense ships. Lieut. Niblack, late United States attache at Berlin and Rome, reported at the navy department today and had some interesting stories to tell of his experiences in every seaport in Europe trying to buy or lease vessels for navy in thirty days. The department officials are very much pleased with the energy and ability shown by the young officer in the discharge of the important duties confided to him. He has been ordered to duty as watch and division officer on the Topeka, one of the ships that he got to purchase in England.

SANTIAGO BOMBARDED.

The absence of official news of any character from the fleets at the navy department today gave the widest field for speculation and all sorts of stories were afloat as to the whereabouts of the vessels and the importance of an engagement. One report that came from Madrid of the bombardment of Santiago received some credence as it seemed to show that Gen. Greene, the chief signal officer, had set in motion the machinery of the navy to carry out his declared purpose of cutting the cables. Its authenticity could not be discerned.

"Your correspondent received this afternoon from Reisharst Brothers, Gibson's Cove, who vouched for correctness of the story. The sun on which seem near Isaac Island were about five miles from the coast. No further information has been received up to this time."

Halifax, N. S., May 19. In response to a query sent to a correspondent at Bar Harbor, on west coast this province, following just received:

"This morning about nine o'clock, two smoke of several steamers was seen off the coast near Cape La Have. Several persons went up a hill known as Round Hill, at Gelson's Cove, and from that eminence saw distinctly nine large vessels under steam heading in a southerly direction. They appeared to be travelling at a fair rate of speed. Their nationality could not be discerned."

Wash ngton, May 19. afforded the connection between Havana and the outside world and the Spanish Blanco. It is not believed that the bombardment amounted to anything more than this.

Judge Advocate General Lemly today completed his circular defining the chief characteristics of the 30 torpedo boat destroyers and 12 torpedo boats provided for by Congress in the present naval appropriation bill.

The destroyers provided for are to be of larger type than any vessel of that kind now now have in service, about 400 tons, but the torpedo boats will be about the size of the average torpedo boat now in use, namely about 150 tons. Bidders are left the widest liberty in the matter of original design, but no bid will be considered which fails to guarantee a speed of at least 27 knots for the destroyers and 20 knots for torpedo boats.

No more than 18 and 12 months respectively will be allowed to complete these boats and shortness of time of delivery will be an important element in determining the awards.

LONG CONFERENCES HELD.

The secretary of state today had a long conference shortly before noon today with the secretary of the navy, Mr. Long. At its close Judge Day joined the German ambassador, Dr. Von Holleben, in the department, and it was learned that two conferences occurred, one in order of allowing the German steamer Polaria to pass the blockade and enter Havana harbor. This was the first visit of the German ambassador to the state department for some weeks, as he has been confined to his room by a slight but prolonged illness.

Aside from the Polaria question the state and navy departments have occasion to cooperate frequently of late, as our naval cruisers are scattered through the British, French, Dutch and Danish West Indies, given them the only means of keeping the authorities there fully and quickly posted on the whereabouts of the several squadrons, Spanish and American.

It was the state department that first located the Spanish squadron off the island of Curacao, and it is believed it gave some part then in giving assurance of the safety of the battleship Oregon.

The navy department secures its direct information from the commanders of the squadrons, but these undoubtedly are infrequent and they are not always able to spare a despatch boat while the ships are pushing rapid pursuit. Being ashore, the consuls are better able to make speedy reports as to ships in the offing and those observed in passing, as well as the actual arrival.

Among decorative lieutenants today was the native Louisiana delegation who brought handsomely engrossed resolutions on the subject adopted by the constitutional convention of Louisiana thanking and congratulating Admiral Dewey for the glorious victory of his command over the Spanish fleet at Manila.

NO NEWS OF OUR FLEETS.

The bulletin board at the navy department failed utterly today to produce an item of interest regarding the movements or where bouts of the naval squadrons now believed to be in the Gulf of Mexico and the waters of the West Indies. As soon as opened it was generally known and commented upon the fact that the navy department had received no cablegrams of importance and the alert corps of consular officers scattered through the West Indies had nothing to report.

This absence of positive incidents gave opportunity to the secretary of the navy for the transaction of a considerable quantity of business, and also enable him to leave the department in the afternoon for the Capitol to give the naval committee of the House in executive session of his views on the naval personnel bill. The war conditions of today in the opinion of the secretary have afforded a most conclusive evidence of the necessity for the passage of some such measure as the personnel bill, and he was using every effort to secure congressional action upon it.

WILL BE COMMISSIONED A COLONEL.

Washington, May 19. Walter S. Barker, who was the American consul at Sagua la Grande, Cuba, it is understood to be commissioned a colonel of an insurgent regiment to be sent to Cuba with the first invading party. Consul Barker has a long service in Cuba and is entirely familiar with the topography of the island. In addition to commanding a regiment, Mr. Barker is to be placed in charge of all the supplies to be distributed among the concentrados. Consequently he will be with first of the American forces to be landed in Cuba.

SECRET CONFERENCE HELD.

Buenos Ayres, May 19.—(via Galveston, Texas.) A despatch received from Rio Janeiro says the United States minister there has had a secret conference with the Brazilian minister for foreign affairs.

Montreal, May 19. The Star today says: A new feature of the Spanish American war, one in which it is asserted Senor Polo y Bernabe and his associates are heavily interested, is the probable advance of the Cadiz squadron into the North Atlantic.

One barrier alone has been standing between the New England coast and the Cadiz fleet. It is the lack of coal for the warships when they get to this side of the ocean. It has been planned to secure a coal supply.

Spanish ships now carrying it may be well on their way across the Atlantic indeed according to information received from a correspondent at No. Sydney, C. B., it is possible even at the present time that Spanish coal ships are in the waters about New Foundland.

The advices from Cape Breton point out that Sagua Cuba has been in communication with an agent or correspondent on the island of St. Pierre, the coaling station of France in the North Atlantic. There is a constant exchange of trade between Cape Breton and St. Pierre, and the coming of one port is more or less apparent in the other.

For the past week lookout operators on the New Foundland coast have reported the appearance of strange vessels in those waters. The Sun's informant suggests that these strange craft are Spanish colliers convoying the fleet with Spanish coal.

WILL NOT BOMBARD THE CANARIES.

London, May 19. The agent in the Canary Islands of a Liverpool firm writes that the British consuls there had been informed that the United States will not bombard the Canary Islands, as the result of an arrangement between Great Britain and the United States whereby, while Great Britain remains neutral the United States will abstain from such a bombardment, which would mean great destruction to British property in the Canary Islands.

ONE OF THE GREATEST NAMES.

Washington, May 19. Secretary Long said today of Mr. Gladstone: "I regard Mr. Gladstone as one of the great names in modern civilization. He has stood for right and peace. England erects a monument to no nobler life, and America with a cordial hand will help to lift it."

TRIBUTES TO THE DEAD STATESMAN.

London, May 19. All the continental papers publish tributes to the late Mr. Gladstone. The French papers are generally sympathetic, and the Greek newspapers are deeply grateful for what Gladstone did for Greece.

EXCELLENT PROGRESS MADE.

Two-thirds of the War Revenue Measure Have Been Read in Senate--House Proceedings.

Washington, May 19. While several important paragraphs in the war revenue measure were passed over, today for future consideration, excellent progress was made by the Senate in the consideration of the bill. Two-thirds of the measure have been read, the committee amendments having been generally agreed to. Mr. McLaurin (Dem., S. C.) opened the discussion of the bill today with a carefully prepared speech, outlining all of its features. He expressed the hope that the bill would pass as reported by the majority of the committee on finance, with the exception of the stamp tax, which he thought quite unnecessary. The proposition to place a stamp tax upon proprietary articles will be strenuously opposed by many Senators. The paragraph has not been disposed of finally.

SENATE IN DETAIL.

Mr. McLaurin said he was ready to vote for any measure that would tend to bring the war to a successful conclusion.

Concerning the proposed issue of bonds he said: "There is no money in this country just as anxious to raid the United States as our volunteers are to raid Cuba. These jobbers and speculators form a greater menace to us than the war with Spain."

At the conclusion of Mr. McLaurin's speech the clerk proceeded with the reading of the bill.

When the paragraph providing for stamp taxes upon all transfers of stocks was reached the paragraph was amended so as to clearly cover all agreements to sell stock, whether the stock actually was transferred or not.

Mr. Clay (Ga.) moved to strike out the requirement of tax of two cents upon each promissory note of $100 or less. It was rejected.

Mr. Bacon moved so to modify the provision for a tax on inland bills of exchange as to relieve bills of less than $100 in value from the requirement and to fix the rate at 2c where the value is between $100 and $200.

OBJECTED TO CHANGE.

Mr. Wolcott objected to the change, saying that there was no real foundation for the objection to the proposed tax except upon the stamp.

Mr. Bacon suggested that if the bill passed as reported, it would carry too much revenue and that taxes such as these now under consideration could be eliminated. He urged that the democratic amendments be taken up now.

Mr. Allison suggested that if the democratic amendments were to be included in the bill as it should become a law, it would carry more revenue than was needed, but there was no way yet of knowing how this would be, but if they were included in the final action of the Senate it would be easy enough to return to other items.

Mr. Aldrich opposed any change in the order of proceeding with the bill.

TELLER WANTS MORE TAX.

Mr. Teller said the difficulty was that the committee was divided as to the sum that should be raised as revenue under the bill. He did not believe the bill would produce as much as Mr. Allison had estimated but he was himself, he stated, for $200,000,000 that he thought the country should pay by provide revenue for the present war, but also for the debt. Mr. Teller said the indications were that the war with Spain would not last long, but to him the signs were equally strong that within a few years we would be involved in another war which might and probably would be of far more serious consequence than the contest with the seven to nine country with which we are now contending.

The Bacon amendment was lost, 13 to 41.

While the paragraph requiring all bills of lading, manifests or receipts covering railroad, steamboat or express companies to bear stamps was under consideration Mr. Sewell (R. N. J.) inquired as to the amount of stamps required to be put on bills of lading, and the receipts for the shipping of goods.

Mr. Allison replied that he was not sure and the paragraph was so amended as to make it the politic[illegible]

Mr. Mallory (Fla.) believed that the tax on telephone messages would be difficult to collect.

Mr. Allison explained that the requirements of a receipt for messages did not apply to residence telephones, but to pay stations, of which there are thousands in all large cities.

GORMAN THINKS NO TROUBLE WILL RESULT.

Mr. Gorman thought that the tax would be productive of a deal of trouble as most pay station telephones now are equipped with mechanical contrivances for receiving the money.

Mr. Wolcott said it would simply be necessary for the merchant in charge of the pay station to give a receipt with the stamp attachment.

On all other telephone transactions the books of the companies would exhibit the facts and secure payment of the tax to the government. At the suggestion of Mr. Wolcott, the entire amendment relating to express, freight and telephone taxes was laid over for future consideration.

The committee amendment relating to the taxes upon life insurance policies were passed over at the suggestion of Mr. White (Cal.). The other committee amendments relating to marine, inland fire, casualty, fidelity and guarantee insurance, were agreed to.

At the request of Mr. Jones (Ark.) the first four pages of schedule B, relating to the tax upon proprietary articles, perfumery and other articles ordinarily sold in drug stores, were passed over.

Mr. Mantle (Mont.) inquired concerning the stamp tax on manufactured tobacco. Mr. Allison expressed the opinion that tobacco now in stock ought to be taxed, if such a tax could be levied constitutionally.

Referring to the tax on druggists supplies, now on hand, Mr. Allison said he believed that stamps ought to be placed on articles sold at wholesale.

Mr. Daniels (Va.) objected seriously to the retroactive feature of the House bill, as applied to the tobacco schedule. It has aroused a storm of protest in every commercial center of the country. He declared the adoption of the retroactive feature would result in the ruin of all small dealers and leave the tobacco trade in the hands of monopolies.

Mr. Bacon thought the retroactive features in every part of the bill unjust and ought to be eliminated.

Mr. Aldrich pointed out that if the articles in the hands of retailers were not taxed, it was absolutely certain that none of the articles would be in the hands of manufacturers on the day the bill became a law.

After the reading of the committee amendment relating to excise taxes on persons, firms, companies, and corporations, the bill was laid aside until tomorrow.

At 4.55 P. M. the Senate went into

DEWEY FIRES ON THE BATTERIES.

(Copyright by the Associated Press.)

Kingston, Jamaica, May 19. 4 P. M. Two American warships whose names were not discernable from the shore appeared off Santiago de Cuba yesterday while the steamer Adula, which has arrived here from that port with refugees, was in the harbor.

They approached and drew the fire of the batteries at the entrance but it is not certain whether the warships replied to the fire. The firing continued from noon to 1 o'clock. Capt. Walker of the Adula, when coming out could not see any marks on Morro Castle, and inferred that the American ships drew the fire of the batteries to learn the range.

There was much excitement in the city. The regulars and volunteers were called out and new earthworks batteries were erected on each side of the harbor entrance. The number and calibre of the guns are unknown. But it is known that there are 21 torpedoes in the channel electrically connected with the shore.

The cruiser Mercedes, whose boilers are disabled, has been anchored so that she can rake the channel for 300 yards and the merchant ship Mexico of Barcelona, mounting four small quick firing guns, is in the harbor. Several coasting steamers and schooners are at the wharves.

A few days ago a German steamer brought 10,000 bags of rice to Santiago de Cuba. Rice and sardines are the principal food supplies.

Last night, when about sixty miles from Santiago de Cuba, seven large steamers moving in two columns crossed the Adula's course, going west. They were evidently warships, but their nationality could not be identified. The Adula brought 236 passengers.

DEWEY'S FLEET AT CANOE'NG.

Newton, Mass., May 19. Geo. Knapp, 24 years old, son of I. H. Knapp of the Beaconsfield terrace, Brookline, was drowned this afternoon while canoeing on the Charles at Riverside.

Miss Grace Adams, who was also in the canoe when it upset, was saved. Mr. Knapp and Miss Adams started out about four o'clock for a afternoon on the river and had not gone far when from some unknown cause the boat suddenly capsized. Mr. Knapp made desperate efforts to save the young lady and in doing so his feet became entangled in some brush near the bank. He was unable to extricate himself and sank before a number of men on the bank who had already dragged the young lady ashore could reach him. His body was recovered some hours later. Mr. Knapp was well known in Boston and Brookline.

TERROR READY TO LEAVE.

(Copyright 1898, the Associated Press.)

St. Pierre, Martinique, May 19. The Spanish gunboat destroyer Terror, at Fort de France, has completed her repairs and is ready to leave at any moment.

The Spanish ambulance ship Alicanta today changed her moorings, from the inner to the outer harbor in order to take on coal.

The British steamer Twickenham, with 2800 tons of coal, has arrived at Fort de France.

It is reported that a contract has been made with the Spanish government under the terms of which the Twickenham is to furnish coal for a two months' siege of Fort de France.

The French government has thus far refused to allow the Alicanta to coal from the Twickenham, but the Spanish consul has obtained permission for a few days while for the Twickenham to be before delivering the cargo.

The excitement among the Spanish sympathizers is very great.

REGULAR TROOPS FOR DEWEY DETERMINED UPON

Washington, May 19. The regular troops which are to accompany the expedition to the Philippines were determined upon at the war department today and orders for them to proceed promptly to the coast will be issued. These, with the volunteers from California, Colorado, Kansas, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Oregon, Utah, Wyoming, North and South Dakota and Idaho will make up the aggregate total which are to be taken to the Pacific coast to act as a reinforcement to Admiral Dewey and enable him to take Manila.

The public announcement of the determination of the disposition to be made was made known in an order of the department giving detailing several officers for duty in that connection. The quartermaster's department reports that four ships which have been chartered for carrying the troops to Manila should be ready to sail inside of a few days. The City of Pekin, which will get off first, is almost ready. The commissary department was advised that supplies for 15,000 men were to reach San Francisco today from Chicago. They are calculated on a basis of three months.

THE WIDE WORLD MOURNS FOR GLADSTONE.

London, May 20. The universal expression of grief and sympathy gather volume hourly. Memorial and reminiscences of Mr. Gladstone are flooding the press, which everywhere shows column rules reversed. Almost every court in Europe has sent condolences.

Vice President Hobart, cables the Daily Chronicle as follows:

"Not even in his own land was Mr. Gladstone more highly esteemed and venerated than in the United States. His death has been well nigh a nation's calamity to us and it occurs at a time when our people are closely drawn by ties of sympathy and natural interest toward the nation to which his long career of public usefulness was so generously dedicated."

The body will be removed to the large bedroom today (Friday) and placed in a plain oak coffin surmounted by an oak cross, extending nearly the whole length of the bed. At the foot will be the inscription.

Three panels are on each side of the coffin of oak being of a red dark metal.

The date of the funeral has not been fixed, but probably Tuesday will be chosen. The proposal for a funeral at Westminster Abbey has not been favorably received by the national funeral. Mr. Gladstone did not leave any wishes on the subject. Dean Bradley, of the Abbey, has suggested as the most suitable spot the nave.

In consequence of the death of Mr. Gladstone the state ball at Buckingham Palace, which had been fixed for Monday next, will be postponed.

EXPEDITION FORCE INCREASED

Washington, May 19. The force assigned to the Philippines expedition has been increased by two regiments of infantry from the regular army. Adj. Gen. Corbin tonight sent telegraphic orders to the 18th and 23d infantry, now in camp at New Orleans, to proceed at once to San Francisco. They will embark for the Philippines as soon as supplies and transportation can be furnished them.

Gen. Corbin said tonight that the number of volunteers mustered into the service of the United States yesterday passed the hundred thousand mark.

QUIET AT CAMP TOWNSEND.

Augusta, Me., May 19. It has been a quiet day at Camp Townsend, nothing but the regular drills with the regiment. In the afternoon taking place. Many of the regiments were paid. No fresh orders have yet been received from the war department for the movement of the regiment to Chickamauga, which will probably not go before Sunday.

SPANISH SQUADRON SEEN

Madrid, May 19. A direct message from Santiago de Cuba confirms the report of the arrival of the Spanish squadron there. The despatch says the event has caused in enso enthusiasm at Santiago de Cuba.

A GENEROUS GIFT.

Piano Presented to the First Parish Vestry—Strawberry Festival.

The strawberry festival at the First Parish church vestry last evening was made more than usually enjoyable by the presentation of a fine piano for use in the vestry by our highly esteemed fellow citizen, Hiram H. Fogg, Esq., the generous gift being deeply appreciated. Mr. Fogg was called upon to speak and he responded in a happy vein. The piano is a very fine instrument from the well known establishment of M. H. Andrews.

The festival was largely attended and the entertainment was much enjoyed. The programme follows: Piano solo, Miss Brimhall; song, Mr. George T. Moody; song, Mrs. W. A. Nelson; selections on the Angelus, Mr. M. H. Andrews. The performers were warmly applauded and were obliged to respond to encores. Mr. Andrews attached the Angelus to the new piano and rendered choice selections, concluding with patriotic airs.

WHERE WILL THEY SAIL TO?

Madrid, May 19, 4 P. M. In spite of the veto placed on the publication of Spanish naval movements the newspapers here were allowed to announce that Admiral Cervera's squadron, consisting of the battleship Pelayo, the first class armored cruiser Carlos V., the auxiliary cruisers Patriota and Rapido, formerly the Hamburg-American line steamers Columbia and Normannia, the cruiser Alfonso XII., the cruiser Antonio Lopez, three torpedo boat destroyers and the armed yacht Giralda will shortly sail from Cadiz, while the reserve squadron consisting of the Vittoria, Numancia, Lepanto and other vessels will be organized immediately.

WHERE IS THE SPARTAN?

Boston, May 19. There is much apprehension in shipping circles concerning the safety of the barque Spartan, now long overdue on a passage from Perth Amboy for Bath, Me. The Spartan is owned by Augustus Palmer, of Bath, and as important repairs were contemplated her owner decided to send her to the home port on account of the practical stagnation of the off shore business in consequence of the war. The bark has loaded a cargo of about 1200 tons of coal at Perth Amboy and left there April 22 and has never since been heard from.

The Spartan was commanded by Capt. Anderson, a well known ship master, and carried a crew of about 12 men.

FIRED EIGHTY SHOTS.

Madrid, May 19. An official despatch received here today from Havana says that some American ships fired eighty shots during the reported recent bombardment of Santiago de Cuba, but that no damage was inflicted. The despatch adds that the batteries at Santiago de Cuba replied to the fire of the ships and that one of the latter was damaged.

REMPSTEAD FOR A RENDEZVOUS.

Washington, May 19. Hempstead, L. I., has been definitely selected as a rendezvous point for troops from the New England and middle states section and it is expected that 10 regiments eventually will be quartered there. The long expected appointments of officers to the staffs of the 24 new major generals have been made so that the way is now clear for the entry upon active duty of the officers who have been obliged for several weeks to remain in Washington.

KILLED BY A KNOCKOUT.

New Haven, Conn., May 19. Craig Webster, 30 years of age, a semi-professional boxer, received a knockout blow in the third round of a friendly bout with James Eagan this afternoon and died three hours later. Eagan is under arrest pending investigation of Coroner Mix. Both men were employed by the New Haven Mfg. Co. and the bout occurred during the noon hour.

DERBY OK CLUB.

Business Meeting and Election of Officers—Change of Name.

President, Mrs. F. L. Tuck.
Vice President, Miss Mae Slaby.
Secretary, Mrs. R. L. Flanders.
Treasurer, Mrs. E. E. Peck.
Directors, Miss Walsh, Mrs. W. A. Nelson, Mr. G. S. Slaby.

All members of B. H. Beale Post, G. A. R., having sabres and body belts are requested to return them to the hall.

Capt. Stanley P. Dennett is at home from Camp Powers on short furlough.

The Free Church in Austria is a branch of missionary work from the United States, under the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. It includes now forty congregations, with 1158 members. Five congregations in Prague, one of which is self-supporting, have 374 members and raised last year nearly $2000 for benevolent purposes. Church services are held under close restrictions, danger the core of an officer who seems to be that matching is forbidden is said. But the expenditure of the Scripture and the preaching of salvation through Christ alone are not regarded as offensive. These are the first beginnings of religious liberty in Austria.

executive session and at 5.35 P. M. adjourned.

THE HOUSE.

Washington, May 19. The adjournment of the House until Monday postpones until next week any possible consideration of the Hawaiian resolutions. The impression that the committee on rules will prove ready to bring up the resolutions next week is strong. It is said that Speaker Reed is ready to yield to the demands for consideration and it is believed that the revenue bill by the middle of the week will be so well toward passage in the Senate that action upon the Hawaiian matter in the House will cause no delay in disposing of the revenue bill. This will remove the ground for what has been weighty objection to acting upon the resolutions upon the part of Mr. Dingley and a considerable element in the House and with that out of the way it is believed certain of the Hawaiian question will follow speedily. After passing the labor arbitration bill as amended by the Senate and experiencing a brief outburst of ill precipitated by personal political explanation from Mr. Tongue (Rep. Ore.) the House adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE IN DETAIL.

Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.) called up the labor arbitration bill as amended and passed by the Senate. He moved to concur in the Senate's amendments.

Mr. McEwan (Rep., N. J.) filed his protest against the measure, declaring he considered it vicious and dangerous.

In reply to a question from Mr. Livingston (Dem., Ga.) Mr. Grosvenor said he wanted the bill to make arbitration compulsory instead of discretionary as provided. Mr. Grosvenor said "If the gentlemen will declare his willingness to vote to make arbitration of labor disputes compulsory and will put himself in the line of fire from the labor organizations, I want to say he will need a sealed warrant to hold general over his political ambitions."

Mr. Walker (Rep., Mass.), from the committee on labor, spoke for the bill, explained the conference report and labor organizations desired its passage.

ROLL CALL ORDERED.

After debate on the proposition to send the bill to conference, in which many members participated, a roll call upon agreeing to the Senate's amendments, thereby effecting the bill's passage, was ordered, resulting in yeas 226, nays 8.

An agreement to postpone consideration of the Brewer-Swanson election case from the fifth Virginia district until the next session of Congress was reached. Notice that the case would be called up today was given yesterday.

The Speaker announced the appointment of Messrs. Hugh McCulloch, of Pennsylvania, and Tate, of Georgia, visitors to the West Point military academy, and Messrs. Hilborn, of California, Wagner, of Pennsylvania, and Wheeler, of Kentucky, visitors to the naval academy.

The House agreed to adjourn today until Monday, memorial addresses upon the late Senator George, made a special order for Saturday, being made the order for Wednesday, May 25.

The rising of Mr. Tongue (Rep., Ore.) to a question of personal privilege to answer to a circular now being circulated in his district injected interest into the proceedings. The circular in question he said was an anonymous document attacking his record in the present Congress, and continued in substance that it was apt wholly or in part false. He read from the circular and replied to the charges that were being used for the alleged purpose of accomplishing his defeat.

Mr. Tongue asserted that the circular was being sent out with the apparent sanction of the Democratic committee and he supposed it was intended to deliver to work of Senators and members of the House. He was proceeding to criticise Senator Waite (Col.) when the Speaker called him to order. When Mr. Tongue concluded, Mr. Handy (Dem., Del.) and Mr. Brucker (Dem., Mich.) were upon their feet. Being members of the committee in question they made an effort to have the circular read in full in order to get it into the record. A point of order against the reading was made and sustained. Mr. Handy remarked meantime that the gentleman of Mr. Tongue's argument seemed like a "clear case of confession and avoidance."

At this juncture the efforts of the Democrats to make adequate reply to Mr. Tongue were interrupted by Mr. Sherman (Rep., N. Y.) who made a motion agreeing to a conference on a rider of way bill. Immediately afterwards Mr. Hayes (Rep., N. Y.) moved to adjourn. The Democrats joined in a chorus of "Nos," and upon the announcement of the motion being carried Mr. Bailey (Dem., Tex.) vigorously demanded the ayes and noes, remarking to those about him, "We do not propose to be cut off without registering our protest."

The roll call proceeded, and the House at 2.53 P. M. adjourned.

A Republican State Convention

WILL BE HELD IN

CITY HALL, AUGUSTA,

Tuesday, June 28th, 1898,

AT 11 O'CLOCK A. M.,

for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor to be supported at the September election, and transacting any other business that may properly come before it.

The voters of Maine, without regard to past political differences, who are in favor of sustaining President McKinley and his administration in the conduct of the war with Spain; who are in favor of sustaining the present wise and economical administration of our State affairs, are cordially invited to join with the Republicans in choosing delegates to this convention.

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city, town and plantation will be entitled to one delegate, and for each 75 votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1896, an additional delegate, for a fraction of 40 votes in excess of 75 votes a further additional delegate. Vacancies in the delegation of any city, town or plantation can only be filled by a resident of the county in which the vacancy exists.

The State committee will hold a session in the city council room, City Hall, at 9 o'clock on the morning of the convention, for the purpose of receiving the credentials of delegates. Delegates, in order to be eligible to participate in the convention, must be elected subsequent to the date of the call of this convention.

Reported at Santiago De Cuba

At this writing the latest news is a Paris bulletin to the effect that the Spanish squadron has arrived at San Iago de Cuba. Should later dispatches confirm this report Admiral Sampson has his work all cut out for him. By this time the situation has probably been strengthened by the arrival of the Oregon which will enable him to look after the Spanish vessels and, if need be, to forward move next that may be made by the troops who are to form the army of invasion. Wherever the Spanish ships may be the United States fleet is now in a condition to keep reported, as it is prepared and is ready to give them a tilt at any time.

A Great Career Closed.

In the minds of men in more and respected throughout the civilized world Mr. Gladstone died at four o'clock passed away at an early hour Thursday morning surrounded by the members of his family. The career thus closed, a detailed sketch of which appears in the Whig in connection with the announcement of his death, had been a illustrious and fruitful one. For men have worn wider or more lustrous fame. His name has been a familiar theme in every household and the universal respect in which it has been held constitutes the highest possible tribute to his character. He was human and during his career has taken widely differing positions on questions of public import, but he was always ready to affirm his stakes and bear criticism as his conduct and the motives since city of his purpose. The simplicity of his life accord a striking. He was a statesman in the best sense of the term, strong in deed, which united and success in all that he undertook. His home life was a delightful as his public life was conspicuous and he died as he had lived in perfect faith.

Young Men to the Front.

The preponderance of young men in the companies of volunteers that have been ordered into various state camps is occasioned considerable comment. The fact that fully 95 per cent of the men who have responded to the call of the President for troops are in the vigor of what we call the prime of life has been discussed as though it were an unusual circumstance in connection with preparations for hostilities.

It is true that the national guard in all the States has been recruited from the ranks of the young men, and hence the volunteers that are now being mustered into the federal service must of necessity be young men. It is safe to say that at least 90 per cent. of them are unmarried men, who have no one depending upon them for support. It follows that they constitute the most available assets of the nation when it comes to fighting material. As a matter of fact, the first men to go to the front in nearly every war in all wars of history, were young men. When the young manhood of the country is drawn upon by the first demands of the government the subsequent calls for more volunteers bring out the middle-aged men, the men of business and of family responsibilities.

In a tribute to the valor and sturdiness of young men General Beaver, ex-Governor of Pennsylvania and a grizzled veteran of the war, said in addressing the Chicago Y. M. C. A. on the occasion of its fortieth anniversary:

But when the crisis comes I lean on the young manhood of the land. You are helpless and hopeless without it. Now, when the black clouds of war overshadow us and the seas are cleared, we are dependent on our young manhood. If victory comes it will come because of the young manhood of the country is on the side of the country and of humanity, and because young men like Dewey, Sampson and Bagley will lay down their lives for the flag and the cause it represents.

In commenting further on the manner in which the young men went to the front in the civil war General Beaver stated that General John A. Brooke, who had preceded him in command of the First Brigade of the Second army corps, was then only 26 years old. Many of the most efficient commanding officers in the Union army were under 30 years of age. It has been so in all history. The martial burdens of nations have been borne by the rugged, valor and sturdy patriotism of their young men.

Remarkable Year of Trade.

The Bureau of Statistics at Washington has just issued the statement of the country's foreign trade for April and for the ten months of the fiscal year, and the document makes a remarkable showing. The record had already been mentioned in telegraphic advices as the most remarkable in the history of the United States. In the past ten months the country has sold and exported more than twice as much merchandise as it has bought from abroad. To be exact, the total merchandise exports for the ten months were $1,025,426,681, while the imports were $511,181,186, an excess of exports of $514,245,495.

This is far ahead of anything of the sort in recent years. In 1892, which, like the present year, followed a period of crop failure abroad, the excess of exports over imports amounted to $202,875,686. Last year made a still more favorable showing, the excess of exports establishing a new record, but the excess was $267,013,141, whereas for the present fiscal year it is estimated by the Bureau of Statistics the excess for the full twelve months ending with June will probably be $800,000,000.

In eighty-five years prior to 1870 there were only sixteen years in which the exports exceeded the imports. Since 1870 there have been only three years in which the exports have not exceeded the imports, but never previously has the excess been half so great as that which the present year is expected to show. The year 1870, preceding a period of great prosperity, was a record one in our foreign trade for a long time, but the excess of exports over imports that year was but $26,681,000.

For the ten months so far in the present fiscal year the exports of agricultural products alone have been more than $100,000,000 in excess of those of the corresponding ten months of the preceding year, and they will exceed by many millions the agricultural exports of any year in the country's history. The failure of the crops of foreign countries has resulted in the rushing out of immense quantities of our cereals to fill depleted granaries abroad. While exports have increased, imports have decreased. The resulting immense favorable trade balance conservative predictions agree can mean but one thing—prosperity to this country.

VINALHAVEN NEWS.

The Location of the Signal Station Settled.

Recruiting Officers for the Navy After Men—Vinalhaven Boys in the Army—Many Improvements About Town—Entertainments—Fresh News Tersely Told.

[Special to Whig and Courier.]

Vinalhaven, May 19. A representative of the Whig and Courier was in town last Monday in the interest of the paper.

Indications are getting more favorable for summer weather. Green peas of a delicious flavor put in an appearance at the village markets last week; a few hammocks have been swung on verandas; lig shade trees are beginning to cast shadows; the lawns are looking trim and green; the gardens have commenced to grow and we have faith to believe the days will be warmer by and-by.

Tom Clarke, who has employment in the repair shop at Freeport, arrived in town last week for a visit with his mother, Mrs. John Clarke, and other kind relatives.

The highways and byways are in excellent condition for cycling, somewhat earlier in the season than usual, and the riders have been out in full force, enjoying glorious spins the past week.

Miss Dan McKinnon is cycling over a wheel of her own; and Mrs. J. A. Davis has lately undertaken to master the tricky machine.

Prof. Schmidt, of Rockland, has recently organized a class in town for the study of German. The meetings are held at the home of Miss Emma F. Roberts and the following have taken up the study: Miss Roberts, Miss Sara Lyon, Miss Alice Gurney Lane, the high school assistant, Mrs. Jewett, Miss Dessie Collie and O. P. Lyons. A class in French will be organized later.

United States recruiting officers were in the harbor last week for the purpose of enlisting men for the navy. The visiting vessel flying the stars and stripes attracted general attention and her business was soon made known throughout the community.

Later arrangements have been made for the location of the proposed signal station in town. The place selected is at Lane's Island and if the station is established the men in charge will make their quarters at the Lane's Island House. The station will be connected with the mainland by the Vinalhaven-Rockland cable telephone and thus brought in touch with the department at Washington.

Charles E. Parks, the telephone contractor, was in town last week on a business visit, and was the guest of Hon. T. S. Wall.

Everybody seems to be fixing up more or less about the premises this season. An extensive grading job is going on at T. E. Dibblee's, adjoining Rockland avenue. A is being added to W. S. Carver's attractive residence, and the grounds about H. M. Noyes' residence are undergoing a grading process.

The Fox Island Granite Company made another shipment of stone this week for the Hingham dam.

J. P. Archibald continues to make shipments of large cargoes of paving to New York.

The class of '98, Vinalhaven high school, concludes the series of baccalaureate sermons with an "Old Glory" entertainment Friday evening, and the receipts of the evening rounded out the treasury fund to $100. The Union church vestry was transformed for the occasion with hangings of red, white and blue, and bunting and flags galore were used in decorations. The "Gem of the Ocean," "Marching Through Georgia," "Hail Columbia," "Star Spangled Banner," "America," "Yankee Doodle," "Dixie," "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," "Battle Cry of Freedom," "Rally Round the Flag," "Marching Along

STAGE NOTES.

A new Vernon Square stock company in New York is securing Aline Prescott as leading actress and Charles Clarke, Ollie Oliver and Mason are among the recent additions. Season in New York has greatly improved. The Lighthawsymen, which at the Tremont, in Boston, drew crowded houses, is dashing along in a creditable smoothness. Other principal Eastern companies are in full swing. New Zealand concerts at Boston are well attended. Rev. B. F. Pease is the orchestra. Very wise in making his programme, he pleases the patrons. Miss Coghlan, successor to Miss Keith, in Washington Square, Keith's in Boston, is so great that she may introduce it on her next season. Henry is happy at the Grand in Boston. The Wilbur opera company with its composite program is packing the house. "The Grand Duke" is the present bill.

Young Men Who Have Enlisted to Fight the Spanish

Fisherman Who Report Good Luck—Many News Notes of Interest

Caribou, May 19. J. S. Smith and Fred Doherty visited Square Lake Saturday and returned Monday. They brought home clever fish. The largest trout weighed five pounds and was caught by Mr. Smith.

There is a novelty in one of the show windows of J. H. Grant's hardware store that is attracting lots of attention. The design represents a man ready for action and is dressed from goods in stock. The whole was trimmed by Walter Stinchfield, a facetious wag. Geo. L. Goss, traveling representative of the Whig and Courier, was in town Tuesday and went to Presque Isle Wednesday. During last short stay in town Geo. L. Goss received many subscribers for the Daily Whig.

F. J. Dale returned from Squar Lake Friday where he has been trying his luck, and fishing for several days. He reports excellent fishing in that section and brought home a fine string, which he had tagged and had looked as fresh as if just caught.

Lieutenant Colonel Hackett and Dana L. Thornton, two of Caribou's prominent young men who were at the University of Maine, have enlisted in the volunteer army. They have successfully passed the examination and will go to the front with the first regiment.

Steven Uncle Tom's Cabin Company played in Clark's Hall Wednesday evening to a large audience.

Shaw & Mitchell, the enterprising grocers, have added a large safe and Saturday some desks to their office equipment. They have also added another new horse and wagon to their delivery service. This firm always keeps up with the times.

Henry Bell was examined before Judge Littlefield Thursday morning for violation. He pleaded not guilty and was fined $1 and costs and all fish caught in the county jail. The fine and costs were paid and up in the earnest solicitation of friends. Bell's fine was suspended during good behavior.

THE OREGON'S COMMANDER.

Captain Charles Edgar Clark, Who Like Dewey, is a Vermonter.

The old Green Mountain State is especially prominent now in naval operations. As if it were not sufficient honor to furnish to the Navy Rear Admiral Dewey, it now appears that Captain Charles Edgar Clark to whom has been intrusted the responsibility of commanding the Oregon on her long voyage around South America, is also a Vermonter born and bred.

He was appointed from Vermont to the Naval Academy in 1860, when he was seventeen years old, and remained there until October, 1863. He entered upon active service in the midst of the Civil War being assigned as an ensign to the steam sloop Oneida which was one of the Western Gulf Blockading Squadron. The Oneida took part in Farragut's battle of Mobile Bay on August 5, 1864, and in the bombardment of Fort Morgan a few days later, so that the young ensign at the beginning of his career had an amount of practical experience in fighting such as seldom falls to the lot of a modern naval officer. With a three years' leave of absence, Captain Clark, and then successively rank of master, and lieutenant, to that of lieutenant-commander. He was attached to the steamer Suwanee when she was wrecked on July 7, 1869. Since that time he has held various commands, having been attached to the North Atlantic and Asiatic stations, the Naval Academy, the training ship New Hampshire, the Boston Navy Yard, the Mare Island Navy Yard, and the Torpedo Station. He was in command of the steamer Ranger when that vessel was engaged in the survey of the North Pacific Ocean, from 1883 to 1886, and was Lighthouse Inspector from 1887 to 1891.

He was promoted to the rank of commander in 1881. In September, 1893, he took command of the Mohican and cruised in her for a year. He was in charge of the receiving ship Independence in 1895, and on June 20, 1896, he was promoted to the rank of captain and assigned to the command of the coast-defense vessel Monterey.

Nearly three months ago he was hastily detached from the Monterey while stationed at the Mare Island Navy Yard, San Francisco, and ordered to take command of the magnificent battleship Oregon. By this transfer Captain Clark relieved Captain A. H. McCormick, who was then in command of the Oregon, who was in poor health.

On March 19, soon after the change of commanders, she made the Oregon's station on her trip of over thirteen thousand miles to join the North Atlantic squadron.

David Barrett Buries a Serious Injury—Letters from Klondyke—Newsy Notes of the Day's Doings.

Eastport, May 18. David Barrett, a laborer employed at B. Humphrey & Sons' coal shed, discharging the schooner Palestine, fell from the staging to the ground, some twelve feet, striking on his back, and breaking one rib besides sustaining a severe shaking up. The tubs from the vessel were emptied into barrels on the staging and wheeled into the sheds. Barrett after dumping a load stepped back and being close to the edge fell to the wharf below. He was taken to his home and Dr. H. C. Lynch, who was called, could only do what he can for an injured man. Barrett's condition is comfortable.

Moses Prescott, Esq., returned today from a business trip to St. John.

Woodard L. Stover, another of the older people of this place, died at his home in North End last evening, aged about 78. Mr. Stover has been a familiar figure on our streets for many years. He was prominent in religious matters of the city, being a consistent and an active member of the Washington street Baptist church. His funeral will take place Sunday.

There is no prospect at present of a reorganization of the Quoddy baseball club. A number of the members who are enrolled in the new coming home years for law have decided that owing to their liability of being called away again, that it will hardly be worth while to organize and make a good strong team. The season of the course of popular assemblies is held by Beale's Orchestra will be given in Roosevelt Hall on Water street this evening.

Letters have been received from the party of Eastport's who started on April 14th for the Klondike region. The letters were mailed at Juneau on May 3rd and are expected to arrive at Dawson City about the 15th. All were well and spoke of uniting had enjoyed the trip and were fully prepared for the rough part of it, which they were soon to find. The party of Mr. Fred Adams, Mr. Fred Adams, Mr. Fred Adams,

CONDENSERS OUT OF ORDER.

A Slight Accident Delays the Charleston.

Vallejo, Cal., May 19. The cruiser Charleston left anchorage today for Manila with ammunition and supplies for Admiral Dewey's fleet. She left in Mare Island Navy Yard with her condensers out of order. The cruiser steamed about the bay all day yesterday out of sight of San Francisco while her companions were being loaded and cleared. When everything was in readiness for a start on the long trip to Dewey the condensers were found to be out of order. The accident was trivial, but Captain Glass concluded that it would be better to return to the navy yard and have the benefit of the facilities that Uncle Sam's workshops afford. The Charleston will make an other start within the next two days.

KENNEBUNK BEACH.

Visited by a Serious Fire.

Kennebunkport, Me., May 19. The Ridgewood and the Oaks, two of the leading hotels in Kennebunk beach were totally destroyed by fire this morning. The losses aggregate $75,000 which are partially covered by insurance.

ONE OF FINEST ON COAST.

Biddeford, Me., May 19. The Ridgewood Hotel at Kennebunk Beach which was destroyed by fire about 10 o'clock this forenoon, was one of the finest hotels on the Maine coast, comparatively new and equipped in modern style. It was owned by J. H. Bradley who with his wife occupied it as the time of the fire which originated in the basement from a cause not fully determined. All furniture, the property of Mr. Bradley, was also burned.

SPANISH CABINET AT SEA.

Madrid, May 19.—8 P. M. The new cabinet ministers looked their portfolios over this afternoon.

The Spanish newspapers censor the governor of Hong Kong for permitting the American warships to pass in and they say they cannot understand Great Britain's allowing the United States to cut the British West Indies cable. The cabinet will present itself to the Cortes tomorrow, when Senor Rodriguez Sampedro will ask for a statement from the ministers.

The Carlists and Republicans want to prolong the budget debate until the end of June.

The Epoca announces that the Spanish officials have offered the government 250,000,000 pesetas in return for the proclamation of the Spanish sovereignty.

A BIG ARMY MOBILIZED.

Washington, May 19. More than fifty regiments of the volunteer army of 125 have started for or reached the mobilizing points to which they were ordered to proceed by the secretary of war. Fifteen or twenty other regiments have reported their readiness to start for the same points. In order to avoid confusion in the camps and any congestion of the railroad traffic, the war department officials are deferring giving orders for a number of the volunteer regiments to start. The volunteers mustered in total number 95,000 men. All the regiments which were directed to go to San Francisco, except those from North and South Dakota, have left their local rendezvous en route for the golden gate city. The greater portion of the men comprising these organizations are destined for the Philippines.

IS NOT THE SUBMARINE BOAT

Washington, May 19. The opinion in the naval orders posted this morning of assignments of a number of officers to the Holland, gave rise to some guessing as to the belief that the government had purchased the experimental submarine boat of that name, which has been diving and manoeuvring in the waters of Lake Lanapeth, the Navy Department, for a mistake, for the Holland remained on a collier, one of the two Holland vessels purchased by the government yesterday. The vessels were named the Josephus Holland and the Elizabeth Holland, and they have been registered respectively the Unanimous and the Resolute. A third collier, name not given, was purchased and was christened the Alexander.

The matter of the acquisition of the submarine boat by the government was before Secretary Long. The navy yards will have examined the craft and verified in their opinions as to her merits.

NEWS OF THE SINKING OF THE STORY

Key West, May 19. An eye-witness of the bombardment of the forts of San Juan de Porto Rico on May 12 by the fleet of Admiral Sampson, gives the following details today of the engagement. He said:

"The most remarkable feature of the bombardment was the escape of the fleet with so few casualties. The enemy's fire was heavy and continuous and the elevation of their batteries gave them a tremendous advantage. Now they raised a little the ships could be known or understood. Their shells fell all around and their guns had capacity for twice the range, yet they only added two projectiles with any serious effect. The Sun, Iowa and Indiana struck the ribbon that the demolition of well placed further than is a hard thing for even the strongest battleship.

"The secondary battery fire on shipping was not well aimed. The Iowa had spent one before, before, the Texas slightly on account of the range, the smaller guns created [illegible]

"The admiral and his assistants, the staff, Stanton, were on the superstructure on the lee of the gleaming tower. They did not go in the [illegible] which will probably not be [illegible] the dice 36 coming from [illegible] Sid for [illegible] prized [illegible] satisfaction.

"On the forecastle, in the lee of the forward 12-inch turret, were Lieut. March, flag secretary, and Ensign Bennett, flag lieutenant, both of whom, with Stanton, accompanied the admiral from New York. Bennett had the signal boys with him.

"It took about four broad tides to wake the Spaniards up. In the meantime, great yellow-whitish clouds were rising from the hillside, thickening where our shells fell. Then a few puffs of white and little clouds of flame came from houses in the city. The water spurted a few hundred yards from the Iowa and every one was glad because everyone knew the enemy was return in the ugly.

"Before, the [illegible] had been given. By this time the smoke had begun to drift heavily and the Iowa was quiet and covered with salt water. Sighting glasses had to be wiped every few minutes. The men's faces were grimy and their mouths were bitter from the salt spray. When the big guns in turret were fired it seemed as if the ship was a most drawn from the water in the straining effort to follow the projectiles as they sped onward.

"When the Iowa turned to go back to the starting point the cost of the Asia exposed—The New York stately's under the out of the water, and shaking all of her enormous, but making an easy target, slowly in the gathered of two miles. The Texas and Amphitrite followed, striking a little ammunition boxes. The Detroit and Montgomery were little spitfires, and on their starboard sides was a thick mass of yellow smoke.

"The last turret to go toward the Iowa, injuring three men, was a ten-inch Armstrong shell, manufactured in 1896. It was a wonder no more damage was done.

"The shot which hit the New York was an 8-inch shell. It struck the ship squarely in the same place where the Iowa was struck, coming in at the quarter and exploding on the starboard of the superstructure. It then flew into a thousand pieces.

"While the enemy's fire was at its hottest two buckles, stood at the Iowa's bows, without any cover, observing the fight. They worked just as calmly as if New York harbor. They can't hit us, Gooney sang out one of them to a man in the lee of the turret.

"Just then a shell whizzed by. 'Right here to that thing' changed the tune in the chorus pointing derisively to the water that spurted up fifty yards ahead of him.

"Admiral Sampson and his captains have every reason to be proud of their crews.

"The feature most discussed was the plight of the Detroit and her narrow escape from being hit. Shrill sounds rained around her as she lay within 500 yards of the forts.

"The Amphitrite had trouble with her after turret, caused by an accident to the gear which supplied the turret power.

"Several slight accidents occurred on the ships but, on the whole, they were not so numerous as generally happens during heavy target practice."

CAMP DEWEY.

Strange Man Overpowers Guard.

Framingham, Mass., May 19. Camp Dewey was greatly excited this forenoon when it was learned that Private Tracey, company H, 10th regiment, who was on guard at the arsenal, last night, was overpowered by a stranger who suddenly appeared and seized Tracey before the sentry could raise his gun. Tracey called for help and the sentry fled. Later the man stranger appeared again and on being seen was promptly pursued but he eluded the soldiers and was not seen afterward. The alarm for the attack was given and the men turned out in force. The alarm was false. The man was not found. The alarm for the attack was given and the men turned out in force. CUBAN NEWS.

Copyrighted by the Associated Press.

Kingston, Jamaica, May 19. Refugees who arrived here today from Santiago de Cuba, on board the steamer Adelia, say the insurgent district commandants in eastern Cuba are moving nearer and nearer to Santiago de Cuba. Hostilities have been ordered by General Miles, by order of Gen. Garcia. Garcia has brought insurgent forces from the extreme east to the neighborhood of Caimanero, on the south coast, and Brig. Gen. Castillo, of the insurgent army, shifts his command to within 15 miles of Santiago de Cuba.

Small insurgent bands engage in skirmishes almost daily in the outlying garrisoned towns within six miles of the city of Santiago de Cuba. Small cargoes of flour, groceries and canned goods have been received by schooners from Jamaica and Haiti and the markets of Santiago de Cuba are full of fish.

Senor Enrique Capellese, governor of Santiago de Cuba, in an interview printed in La Bandera Espanola of May 18, is quoted as saying: "Spain has 300,000 regular troops and volunteers in Cuba, and we can hold our own. Those of us who are from Spain are mobilized and we are strengthened. Therefore, one of us is equal to two invaders—yes, to three invaders.

"We know America proposes to assail us with 50,000 men. Some reports say 150,000 men and raw levies. We invite four times that number to enrich our fields with their carcasses. The greater the number, the greater the glory. Let us keep our hearts elevated by patriotism and thoughts of our wrongs. Our flag has been called the 'golden and bloody flag of Spain.' In our hands may it be dyed with that name."

The feeling against Americans in Santiago de Cuba is most bitter. The Spaniards threaten to confiscate the plantations owned by Americans.

THE STOCK MARKET.

New York, May 19. No great success attended any effort to awaken active speculative interest in stocks today. There were a number of conspicuous instances during the day, but they were in no sense uniform nor were they significant. First one stock then another seemed to be the object of some sudden demand but the isolated movements had very little influence on the general list. Sugar was the most prominent of such stocks and advanced suddenly almost 2 points, after a period of dullness. Tobacco also had its period of strength. Rock Island continued to lead the grangers and rose at one time to 102, the highest point on the present movement. The grangers were also quite strong, though the volume of dealing was below that of the last few days.

Quite a feature of the trading was the way in which stocks which have lain dormant for some time were awakened into movement and in almost all cases this movement was sharply upward.

There was also a considerable demand for small lots of dividend paying and high price investment stocks, such as is always concurrent with a release of large sums of money and in extension of credits.

Bonds showed a notable awakening into active speculation, evidently a result of more abundant supply of money. U. S. new 3s sec. dr. [illegible] and documents do the bidding [illegible] There was no other change.

DEEP GRIEF IS APPARENT.

London, May 19. The Spanish [illegible] fortifications of Cadiz are reported throughout the country. Flags are everywhere at half mast. The bells are tolling, shades are drawn down and in the public galleries here the pictures of Mr. Gladstone have been draped with crape.

The Queen and the Prince of Wales received the sad news early and immediately sent touching expressions of condolence to Hawarden.

Further details from Hawarden Castle of the passing away of the great English statesman show his end was the most beautiful imaginable; there was no sign of pain or distress.

Mrs. Gladstone clasped her husband's hand and occasionally kissed it while the Rev. Stephen Gladstone read prayers and recited Holy Scripture. The nurse, in the meanwhile, bathed the brow of the patient who, [illegible] gratitude, murmuring: "How nice!" Then came the general, almost imperceptible cessation of life in the midst of his son's prayer, and the weeping family slowly filed from the room, taking Mrs. Gladstone, who was induced to lie down and who soon slept quietly.

Mrs. Drew, Mrs. Henry Gladstone, Mrs. Stephen Gladstone, Miss Helen Gladstone and others attended early communion this morning at Hawarden church. The service was conducted by the Rev. Stephen Gladstone. The ordinary service was replaced with selected prayers from the burial service. Many elegiacs of sympathy are arriving at Hawarden Castle.

President Faure has telegraphed his condolence.

CEBU WAS BOMBARDED.

Vancouver, B. C., May 19. It appears from information brought by the Empress of India that the Spanish did a little bombardment on their own account in the Philippine Islands about a fortnight before Admiral Dewey silenced their fleet. About the middle of April, says a Manila report, Spanish warships went down to Cebu, where they bombarded the city. The troops met no opposition on landing, the rebels having abandoned before an shot was fired, taking with them, it is stated, $200,000 in cash. About thirty natives were killed in the bombardment, but no European casualties are reported.

The city seems in business in Cebu helped their national flags over their premises and these were respected by the Spanish admiral. Cebu, which ranks third in size in the Philippines, was wrecked by the bombardment.

A message from rebels by the Spanish to proved of Admiral Dewey's arrival.

Another news at from Manila says: "The other day a panic was occasioned in the city by the report that the natives of Tondo had risen. All the doors and windows were closed and the civil guard marched the streets. The real cause of the panic was afterwards discovered to be a surprise by the civil guards of a meeting of insurrectionists in Caloocan. The rebels had opened fire upon the rebels and at the same time first opened the doors of the houses. The rebels offered stout resistance with bolos, knives and axes, but the yellows soon settled matters, seven of the rebels being killed. Eight of the guards were wounded and later two died. Subsequently sixty or seventy persons were captured and shot without loss of time. It is estimated that 500 rebels escaped into the country. Two companies of the Third infantry regiment were sent in pursuit. Things in Bothas and Zambales have been bombed. Spanish troops have killed thousands of Indians and hundreds of women and children."

FOR FEMININE READERS.

"If nothing else were calculated to preclude me against woman's clubs," said a nonclubwoman, "it is this concerted hold upon the part of organized effort to extract all the interest and pleasure from things literary. Just to see the club that has turned its attention to literature with but the [illegible] of English, probably, need my treatment of the subject until all possible enjoyment is banished or at least benumbed. I suppose that pleasure and simple in a book or poem would be considered beneath so high and mighty a thing as a woman's club, or, at least, not worthy of it. Such a moral must be pointed out, some lesson drawn, or some complex and abstract theory ascribed to it. It is the Browning Club motif magnified to its highest power and to the ordinary, unpretending reader, content to enjoy her reading irrespective of motif and morals, it is repellant, not to say indecorous. In my own town there is a woman's literary club which in the course of the past year has tackled a number of literary masterpieces. The genesis of the season's work appeared the other day in pamphlet form, and from this I call the following examples: 'Tess; or the Power of Destiny Over the Individual.' 'Alice in Wonderland; or the Result of Childish Imagination When Applied to Children.' 'Beautiful and Inconceivable. The Strength of Mother Affection Contrasted with That Engendered in Later Years, also a Comparison of Man's Will with That of Woman's—Exemplified in Lord Ormont and His Aminta.' 'An Attempt to Express the Inexpressible—Embodied in Edward Bean's Nonsense Verses. The Effect That the Unknown Has Upon the Known Exemplified in 'Ae Bab Ballads.' The Melodies of Mother Goose; or the Contrast of the Imaginative and the Utilitarian with the Practical and the Discordant.' 'What the Tree Spoke for an Idea is Sure to Find. No Matter What the Difficulties and Disappointments—Exemplified in the Hunting of the Snark.' 'Is it any wonder, concluded the woman, that I do not belong to a woman's club?'—New York Sun.

THE PREVAILING ASCOT.

Most women who have lived in the house with men have wondered at their extravagance in collars and ties. Men who dress well have no concern about what is white and cleanly simply in neckwear. 'Tis all the fashion. The furnisher settles that. And the men, with changes in the season, orders dozens of things in his size. Last year's collars and ties are given to men who help around the house.

Women are coming to consider the necktie-collar question with similar indulgence. The articles in fashion they buy regardless of what is at home in the dresser drawers. Those remaining are fair for the laundress's rag.

EAGER PURCHASERS.

To take the place of the sixth string the coming season women in droves are buying Ascots in silk or cotton, white, striped or plaided. The Ascot is far in the lead. The Ascot is the big puff with long crossed lengths. Sometimes it extends to the sides, thus where a military plunged a dozen straight through one and keeps the entire arrangement in place.

It seems impossible for some women to learn to tie the Ascot. For such, the big necktie is arranged in a "mildred knot" and having an invisible fastening it can be slipped on like an Ascot. Ascots are not arranged for long hours in order to walk from the laundry. Its satin and finer fabrics they are designed for, nothing could be which would so serenely. If a woman has the cast talent for tying ties she will be better installed with choice of before the mirror, over it, she takes a row, hours and hours, before finding the Ascot's easily conveyed. They feel sure that an adjustment of Only specimen Ascots, shaped somewhat like a tiered cupcake, selling yesterday for two, three and four dollars, allow to proceed. But you have to buy a necktie to get a card. No amount of fascinating will extract a diamond, for nothing from the busy attendants. [illegible]

COLLARS HIGH AND CLOSE.

Ascots are from forty-five cents up according to the pretensions of the shop where they are sold. Some Ascots are made on duck or linen muslin, and are to be worn without collars. Others require foundation collars. Collars two years are pretty high. The temple is close in front. The smaller margin is turned down. But the neckfly, long, really the king, the neckband is fast many things at most background and support for it.

PIQUE STOCKS.

Stocks, which are white, plaide plain bands and take the place of starched collars, are welcome novelties. They are the same width and hooked on the collar. Neck ties are worn with them. The advantage is their pliability.

THE FOUR-IN-HAND.

Next in popularity to the white or colored satin or cotton Ascot comes the four-in-hand, of striped ribbons or strong plaid colors. Red and blues for horsemen go like hot stuff in wet weather at camp grounds. The four-in-hand, like the Ascot, is huge in proportions, having outgrown the modest dimensions of previous years. It pretty nearly covers the waist front. This single of tie comes especially in satin, silk and moire. Some four-in-hands have fringed ends.

LARGER BOW TIES.

The little club knot made from the string tie will be seen this summer, though rarely in black, as formerly, but in gay stripings, or bright solid colors. Larger bows in fly knots in Indian or dahlia Francaise silk are offered to the novice, the small sport tie. In brief, neckwear is for general use, is large of whatever style, unless white, fancy, whatever color. And the women, who are not careful to harmonize the stripes of their waists with those of their ties will try our summer vis ones. They who like such noticeable neckwear buy or make a dozen of soft white [illegible] in Rood in full bows [illegible] chin. These ties, [illegible] edged, are approved [illegible]

Philadelphia is to have an Athletic Club which will make a strong effort to bring about another meeting between Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons. A stock company has been formed with Leo Myer of the Arcana as president. The company is to be incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000 and its objects are to promotion of athletic sports with boxing receiving the most attention.

The club, as composed of influential men and a large arena is to be erected with a seating capacity of 25,000. The arena is to be situated a short distance from the city. President Myer says championship contests of twenty-five rounds duration will be held monthly, but that the new club will not interfere with the arena. A purse of $20,000 is to be offered for Corbett and Fitzsimmons.

Dr. Brad of Rush of Hyde Park, Mass., was elected manager of the Department athletic team for 89-00 by the sophomore class last night. Rich has been a director of the athletic association this year, and was on the track last year. He is captain of Co B of the college militia, and a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

The annual Harvard spring tennis tournament will be held on Jarvis field next Saturday. First and runner-up prizes will be given in singles and in doubles, and in the singles also a consolation prize, open to all men beaten in their first match, actually played. All matches will be the best two out of three advantage sets, except the finals, which will be the best three out of five advantage sets.

Kid McCoy has written a letter to Parson Davies asking the manager to arrange a match with Joe Choynski. McCoy has had chances to box Choynski and has always turned them down.

AT YALE.

In three weeks the members of the Yale crew will go to New London to train for the Mr race. The faculty have said that they will assist the crew managers in getting away to the Thames for practice as early as possible and Bob Cook thinks that the first week in June will be none too early.

The return of Greenleaf to the varsity boat last Thursday has done more to settle the eight than anything that has happened since Stroke Williams took his old seat. Since Greenleaf stopped rowing, three weeks ago, the boat was in an unsettled state. Cook has been changing the order of the oarsmen constantly. Allen, at No. 3 and Brock, No. 5, are the only men who have not been juggled about. Williams has held stroke for a month, and as Elliot has been kept at No. 4 during that time, it is believed that both these oarsmen will not be moved from their present positions.

The arrangement of wielding Wickes at No. 2 and Captain Whitney at bow seems to work smoothly, but a change is possible. No. 6 and No. 4 are still the underfin seats. Niedecken and Crooks are having an even fight for No. 6. Elliot has a little the advantage of McGee for No. 4, because the latter is complicated by backwork in his studies which he must make up before June. Ellis, fresh from his experience of stroking the crew for two months, is rowing a smooth No. 4, but McGee's work is ragged. Olin Greenway, who rowed No. 4 in the varsity last year, has just been taken to the training table. He is first substitute this year. Dave Rogers and Griswold of last year's varsity eight are out of the boat altogether.

The work of the crew was irregular last week. Mr. Cook was out of town on business most of the time, and the rowing was either omitted or was slight on two or three days. Captain Whitney was obliged to be in New York at conferences relative to settling the date for the big race, and has not been with his men regularly. Only once have the eight been over the four-mile course. On that occasion the time was not as good as twenty-two minutes. One or two mile spins have been tried. In these the oarsmen showed great speed. They rowed even better than when they broke the record on the Hudson last year in the freshman race.

Captain Greenway of the Yale nine has had little success in his search for a trustworthy third baseman, and it looks now as if he would keep Huzen on the bag all the season. Huzen's general work is slow. Camp at short and DeSolme at second are playing a fast, hard game. The work of the Scottie, Greenway, Weare and Wallace, is all that could be asked. Fearley's fine form in the box has relayed the fears of the undergraduates in that direction, and Hall is coming along handsomely as a good substitute.

AT PRINCETON.

Princeton athletes are now at their height. Barring unsteadiness at times, Coach Bradley has been able to get together a baseball team that is going to do credit to Old Nassau unless all signs fail. Captain Kafer is handling the team in splendid shape and his playing has not been affected in the least by his elevation to the captaincy. Hillebrand is pitching in masterly style and is going to make a good record this season. He has splendid speed and good curves. He also has the advantage of great athletic experience and is a coming in that places.

Likely at first, Burke at second and Hutchings at third base are all just a little unsteady in their fielding yet, but they are improved somewhat. But or at shortstop is playing the best ball now of any time in the two years he has been associated with the team. He is the heaviest hitter on the team and is playing a remarkably steady fielding game. In the outfield Eaton, Watkins and Suter is the makeup now, as Thompson was badly injured last Thursday and will likely be out of the game for the remainder of the season. Watkins has taken Thompson's place in centre field and ought to be able to hold it. He is fast and is all fair hitter. Princeton is a weaker batting team than last year's championship nine, but at times the batting is strong enough to warrant the prediction that Princeton will be able to make a very strong bid for championship honors. If the men play the best ball they are capable of, there is no reason that Princeton should not win a third consecutive championship. But unsteadiness in fielding must come first.

The track men have put in a good week of hard training, and the outlook now is the best shape of any time this year. This does not mean that they are ready for the championship or any contests, but they have improved greatly over their condition of ten days ago. The hard work of the season is now approaching and for the next two weeks the track athletes will have to train hard.

Hush is going to run the short sprints for the first time if his condition continues to improve. Jarvis will run a fast quarter. Cregan, in the mile, is yet an uncertain quantity, as he has been suffering from a sore eye, and has done little training. His form of last year entitles him to be considered a likely man in the championships, but there will have to be much improvement in his condition if he is to fulfill expectations. Palmer is again getting into form after a sickness of ten days and ought to run a lively half mile.

The weight throwers have shown improvement steadily, and Captain Potter is likely to take a place in the hammer throw. Wheeler is also throwing the hammer well, and Rotterman and Dunmeyer are improving with the shot. Wheeler and Herndon are the only hurdlers of any importance at Princeton this year, and in the low hurdles Princeton will be weak. In the pole vault Princeton is also weak.

OTHERS.

B. D. Fitzsimmons says he will open a boxing club at New York. When told that he would get a $15,000 purse to box Jeffries at New York he said he would take it for $20,000.

Tom O'Brien, who is to meet George Byers at Lynn May 30, is filling two fights with one stone this week. He is sparring at contests at the Palace theater and the work he does in those bouts helps to get him in shape for his contest with Byers. [illegible]

According to the latest facts of the recent Maher and Goddard bout, it was designed to be a fake like the bout Maher had with Hall in Boston, but Goddard smashed him a knockout. Now the match was arranged by Dave Holland, of New York, who is Goddard's manager. He persuaded a friend of Maher, and got him to agree to the bout and also to allow Goddard to stop it in rounds. Maher's managers advised him not to go on with the match, and now they have cast him adrift. Goddard says he did not knock Maher out with the first blow, but with a left hook on the jaw. Goddard has postponed his trip to the Klondike, and he believes he has a sure fight against any of the heavyweights.

The blow with which Joe Goddard knocked out Peter Maher in one round before a Philadelphia crowd is a fine illustration of the uncertainty of ring contests where the principals represent the "slugger" type, says the New York Sun. Goddard and Maher each have a large surplus of muscle, while in the use of brain power they are uncommonly. Maher was to have boxed Jim Jeffries under the auspices of Tom O'Rourke; in fact, he has signed to fight for $10,000, and it is likely that he could old the manager to his contract. Though a fight with Maher and Jeffries is the principal is not considered worth $10,000. Goddard should be schedulled for the man he has twice beaten, for it will be remembered that Goddard is the man who whipped Maher in three rounds at Coney Island in 92. Maher's championship ambitions are rudely trampled on at times, and always through the blow he has contracted of stopping wicked swinging punches with his face. Corbett stops them with his head, but Maher doubles body punches, and pushes his face out in the open where his opponents can't miss it. Goddard is the man who made himself out having a head like an Indian, resembles the rank of the Kickapoo. About five years Goddard got right in a Broadway restaurant expressed the belief that he could only be knocked out with an axe—a mean axe—he drew the line at wood or stone as too soft. But in March, 1893, Ed. Smith, a second rater of Denver, met Goddard before a New Orleans club and knocked him out after a fight of eighteen rounds. Since then Harry Laine of Melbourne, and Joe Sharkey have added kickers to Joe Goddard's string.

Jim Jeffries received $7,888 for defeating Tom Sharkey at San Francisco on May 6.

Tommy Ryan, who is training Gus Ruhlin for the latter's bout with Kid McCoy, will second Ruhlin. Ryan thinks that Ruhlin is a great pugilist.

Tom O'Rourke has matched Dal Hawkins to box Spike Sullivan at the Lenox A. C. on June 20. The meeting will be for twenty rounds at 133 pounds.

Jack Downey and Danny McBride have been matched to fight ten rounds at 130 pounds, on May 28, at Coney Island. The men will weigh at three o'clock.

Frank Craig, the "Harlem Coffee Cooler," has signed articles to box George Grisp for $500 a side at Newcastle, England. The affair will be decided within two months.

Jack Everhardt and Matty Matthews have agreed to box twenty rounds at a club offering a purse. Everhardt has also signed to box Young Mahoney six rounds at Philadelphia on next Friday night.

Steve O'Donnell has issued a defi on behalf of Leopold Strutzel to meet either Leopold Pardelli, James McCormick, Pat Atherton or Dick Kiddles, Charley Wittek, a Greek, in a wrestling contest, Graeco-Roman style, for from $250 to $500 a side. O'Donnell says he means business and will not enter into any match unless the money is forthcoming.

Athletic fixtures are as follows: May 21, Columbia University vs. Princeton University at Princeton; May 21, Cornell University vs. University of Pennsylvania at Franklin Field, Philadelphia; May 21 Intercollegiate Athletic Association of Pennsylvania championships at Pittsburg; May 21, New York Interscholastic Athletic Association annual championships at Berkeley Oval; May 21, New Jersey Interscholastic Association annual championship meeting.

Kid McCoy has wagered $1,000 with a Buffalo sport that he will whip Gus Ruhlin when they meet at Syracuse this week.

"Jack" Hennessy, matchmaker of the Olympic A. C. of Buffalo, announces that he has matched "Billy" Smith and "Dick" O'Brien, catchweights, 20 rounds, for a $1,250 purse.

Jim Corbett has picked Gus Ruhlin to defeat Kid McCoy on a tip given him by Joe Choynski. Corbett says he cannot see McCoy's "greatness" as a fighter. He says he has withdrawn his offer to Fitz and will not give him 30 cents now.

At the Theatre de la Monnaie, in Brussels, Miss Brema has been much applauded in the part of Delila in M. Saint-Saëns's "Samson and Delila," and has signed a fresh engagement for next season. The one hundredth performance of Massenet's "Herodiade" was recorded there on the 21 of April.

A number of compositions by Herr Arnold Mendelssohn, a relative of the great Felix, formed the programme of a concert given in Berlin last month by Herr Nedbagal, with the co-operation of Prof. Schmidt-Hohne and Dr. Ludwig Wolling. They consisted of excerpts from the music-dramas "Esel" and "Der Bierhautter" and a cycle of songs, which were welcomed by the critics as being replete with individuality, imaginative qualities, and thorough musicianlike workmanship.

MUSICAL GOSSIP.

Evidence is multiplying that woman has made up her mind to compete with man in the field of composition. The Neue Zeitschrift fur Musik of April 27 has two articles devoted to women composers—Ingeborg Jensen, Brousart and Louise Adolpha Le Beau. The first named was a pupil of Liszt, and when she began to compose, he remarked, "Who knows, perhaps you will some day be the George Sand of music." He liked her as a pianist sufficiently to allow her to appear with him at public concerts. To this day, she can claim being the only dramatic composer of her sex, at any rate the only successful one, her "Jery und Bately" (based on Goethe's play) and her "Hiarne," the libretto of which was written by the poet Bodenstedt (Mirza Schaffy), having been heard at many of the German opera houses. She has also written a number of songs, mostly settings of the same poet's verses. Three Grand Dukes have honored her with medals. Parts of her "Hiarne" were to have been performed at the Chicago Exposition. Owing to the general disarrangement of the musical matters there the plan was abandoned; but her "Kaiser Wilhelm I." march was performed at the opening of the Women's Department.

The original orchestral score of Rossini's "William Tell" has just been acquired for the Library of the Paris Conservatoire. The manuscript was found by the well known collector, M. Charles Malherbe in the hands of a jeweler of second-hand books, and it was bought for the Conservatoire at the very fair price of 7,000 francs. The same celebrated library, thanks to the generosity of Mme. Marbot-Sancin, likewise possesses the original MS. of Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

Dr. Hans Richter will next year complete his term of service at Vienna, being thus entitled to a pension for himself for life and for his widow and infant children after his death. It is possible he may then fulfil a long-cherished plan of visiting the United States as a conductor of Wagner concerts, but the rumor that he will take part in the Jean de Reszke opera season in New York next winter is, says the London Daily News, "quite out of the question, even if the way in love that season to take place at all. In any event, the arrangements which may eventually be made for an American tour will apply only to a winter season, and will in no way affect the Richter London concerts in the summer and autumn."

London is to have a visit from the famous Scala orchestra of Milan. The Scala Orchestra del Teatro alla Scala was founded under Verdi's auspices in 1870, the conductors being Faccio, Mancinelli, and Bolzoni. The enterprise has had a checkered career. Faccio conducted in 1888, Martucci in 1890-3, Litmouraux in 1894, Vanzo in 1895, Toscanini in 1896, and Mascagni last year.

Has Italy a new musical genius? The London Musical Times hears from Venice that the oratorio "The Transfiguration," recently produced for the first time in connection with the Milan Conservatorio of Church Music, has been performed there no less than six times during the last few weeks with enormous and ever-increasing success. The composer, the young Abbe Lorenzo Perosi, who conducted, has had numerous applications for the production of the work in various parts of Italy.

At Linz, Austria, an Anton Bruckner fund has been established for the purpose of giving biennial performances there of the deceased master's works. The first of these took place on March 20, under Herr August Gollerich's direction, and created an amount of enthusiasm far exceeding any appreciation of the master's works during his lifetime. The works produced were the Seventh Symphony, No. 1, in C minor; the Ave Maria, for mixed choir a cappella, and the Grand Mass in F minor for solos, chorus and orchestra.

Beethoven's unpublished letters from the Mihn Collection, recently presented to the Royal Library, Berlin, contains some amusing features. In a letter to Von Domanowecz, a Viennese lawyer, Beethoven wants to know if he can't get rid of a troublesome man servant without paying him a fortnight's wages. In another, the irate composer writes to Nobert Streicher "I thank you for your sympathy for me. Today I had lots of trouble with Nanny, but I flung half a dozen books at her head. New Year's day."

The first concert exclusively devoted to British music ever given in Bologna was conducted by Signor Martucci a few weeks ago. The programme included Sir A. Sullivan's "Tempest" music, Dr. Stanford's "Irish" symphony, Dr. Hubert Perry's Symphonic variations, the Intermezzo from Sir A. C. Mackenzie's "Rose of Sharon," and Mr. Cowen's "In Fairyland." The concert is said to have been immensely successful.

RED CROSS WORK.

A letter to Dr. W. S. Marshall, of this city, from a friend, C. C. Banks, gives some facts of interest regarding the Red Cross Society. We print it through the courtesy of Dr. Marshall. It was written on board of the State of Texas at Key West. It reads:

I have been some four weeks with the Red Cross. We sailed from New York here. The U. S. government chartered this boat for the Red Cross to bring supplies to the reconcentrados in Cuba. We have 1400 tons on board. That means 24 car loads, counting 15 tons to a car. Or three loads, counting 31 cars to a train. Round numbers not giving fractions, rice, corn meal, pork, bacon, beans, canned meats, 25 tons lard, condensed milk, coffee and 250 cases, boxes and bundles of clothing, etc., etc. There are four lady nurses. The wife of a doctor, Miss Clara Barton, lady stenographer and two doctors, one surgeon, seven gentlemen to take charge of distribution, counting myself. It is grand here in the harbor. A perfect continual change of interesting views; warships, monitors, cruisers and torpedo boats all around us while I write; some twenty captured vessels brought in as prizes; a continual popping as the marines on board are practicing; shooting sharks in the harbor; a night bugle call on the many ships; search lights and colored signals. I hope we will not have to stay here much longer. When our fleet opens up the Cuban ports and lands troops then in we go. We have the cooks and officers same as when this ship carried passengers and piles of provisions. Our ice cream will soon be out. Balance last month long time before we begin on our stores. You ought to see the turtles here. Weigh from 20 to 400 pounds. Cocoa palms line the shores. Their fruit is sweeter than you look up to the branches.

Altogether it is a scene never to be forgotten. We get one mail a day. Come by boat from Tampa. It is a long distance to New York. Well, I hope we don't get the yellow fever; don't get our heads blown off and come back a knight. Some of the party were wrecked in Havana when Dewey was driven out. It is delightful and ready to take my share of the work when it comes. We shall have some 300 Peons (Cuban laborers) to do the work. We superintend it, check off supplies, have cards to be punched when the order is filled and interpreters to help those who cannot speak Spanish.

PROVISIONING AN ARMY.

Food Best Adapted for Use in a Military Campaign, With Some Suggestions for Cooking in the Field.

Just now the question of the kind of provisions that are best adapted for use in a military campaign is one of great interest and importance. There are certain general principles governing this matter which are the result of long experience and modern methods have not greatly improved on those in use a decade or more ago. The matter has been exhaustively discussed in a scientific way by Brigade Surgeon E. Bonavia, M. D., of the Indian Medical Department at Bengal, and while he wrote was contributed to "The Journal of the Military Service Institution of the United States."

War provisions, he says, require to be made with a maximum of sustaining power and to occupy a minimum of space. It is, therefore, a matter of first importance to consider what are the best preparations that would meet all requirements, viz., of keeping for a year, at least, without spoiling, of palatable and nourishing value alone or combined with other provisions; of being, with view to portability, free from poisonous or irritating qualities, maximum physiological value for vigorous muscular and mental action under trying circumstances and with a minimum of space. Where water can be had, it is not necessary to take provisions that have water in them, in the shape of liquid, as this ingredient can be supplied from the locality. Then the drier and the more concentrated the provisions are the less will be to carry. All war provisions, especially those of a concentrated form, should be hermetically packed, so that if, their tunable into water, or are exposed to rain, no harm will come to them.

DANGERS OF CANNED GOODS.

Speaking of canned goods the writer says: "On various occasions I was made ill by tinned soups. The incurred in-side, might perhaps be found unobjectionable. Whatever the material, a square form is important, as economy of space in war time is of great consequence, as is some easy mode of opening the jars and some easy mode of opening the jars should be invented. For those that could be made with screw tops, perhaps, stearine, or some such material, might be used for lubricating the screw, and preventing it from jamming, and also for making the screw airtight. In addition to a stearine cork in the mouth of the jar, poured in hot, for air-tightness. It is the liquid which, I think, is the most dangerous part of tinned provisions, whether these be meat, fish or vegetable. With the organic acids it continues, whenever moved or in transit the liquid continually washes the tinned surface and dissolves the metallic. Coffee is valuable for the caffeine it contains and will a few cakes of chocolate and caffeine and some war biscuits a man might be out all day without requiring other food. A good war biscuit is still a desideratum. It should be neither too hard, so as to break the teeth, nor so brittle as to crumble to powder in one's pocket."

"The doctor recommends, for a drink while on a march "one-fourth pound of apricot, two or three quarts of water and one and one-half ounces of brown sugar, all well boiled. Shake well before using. In summer drink cold; in winter, hot. It gives more strength and endurance than any other drink. If you have a very long day, an cannot stop for meals, increase the oatmeal to one-half pound, or even three-fourths of a pound, and water to three quarts. If no oatmeal, wheat flour will do, but not so well.

CHEESE AS A FOOD IN WAR.

Speaking of cheese, Dr. Bonavia says: "I do not think that cheese has ever been sufficiently patronized as a war provision on a large scale. Yet it contains the concentrated, dry form a concentrated of nitrogenous food. The best kinds for such purposes would be the hard kinds of cheese, from which the fatter has been removed, such as Parmesan and others. The cheeses should be made rectangular, for economy of space, each wrapped in impervious paper, such as oiled or varnished paper and packed hermetically in tins. Cheese, when perfectly dry, will not decompose. Then all that would be required is to reduce it to an edible condition would be a grater—some simple machine that will grate cheese finely into the powder. In absence of a regular grater, a rough slight do. In this state it would be really digested, mixed with other food. It could be eaten with biscuits and prepared hard or butter. Mixed with messes of all sorts as a nourishing condiment, it is very palatable. Cheese is nicer if grated when required. Grated and bottled cheese acquires an unpleasant musty flavor. Considering that the poor people of the south of Europe live largely on cheese and bread, this concentrated, undecomposable, nourishing and very palatable material appears worthy of trial as a war material. People think that cheese is indigestible, but usually invalids and gouty dyspeptic men are not selected for soldiers. To the sick in hospital special food is given. Moreover, when hard cheese is grated into a fine powder and mixed up with food it is much more easily dealt with by the digestive juices.

THE SAUSAGE FORM OF FOOD.

The sausage form of preparing and packing food materials for war purposes has not, the writer continues, "been sufficiently considered or experimented upon. A good war sausage would be invaluable. It should be made of ready-cooked materials, so that, if necessary, it may be eaten without further cooking, and of such size as to make a meal with some biscuits, water and a little spirits. For European troops going in expeditions, and having little transport, such form of food would be very useful. The war sausage is, I think, an admirable invention; various kinds might be combined with other ingredients, all properly pounded, and flavored in various ways with salt, herbs and other condiments, might be made into sausages. Peas, lentils and all the dals of India contain a large percentage of nitrogenous ingredients, resembling cheese, and which is as nourishing as meat. Potatoes might also be made into sausages. A few suggestions as to the composition of various kinds of war sausages might not perhaps be out of place.

A combination of pounded meat and oatmeal, cooked and flavored with salt and other ingredients, and with a little chili. Three-quarters ground lentils, or "moong" dal, one-eighth grated cheese, one-eighth finely chopped bacon, cooked into a thick porridge, with either water or soup and flavored as before. One might have the choice of a dozen condiments, such as celery seed, marjoram, cinnamon, thyme, etc. A blood and oatmeal sausage, suitably flavored, would be a very nourishing compound. There is still a great prejudice against blood of animals, such as the pig, cow, sheep, etc., being used for food, although black puddings are not unknown among many people. This child, however, is that from which the body of the individual animal is nourished, and, therefore, it must be in turn as nourishing as the meat itself. Of course, blood contains also the used ingredients which are eliminated from the body, but as their elimination is continuous, their accumulation, except in disease, is never so much as to interfere with the health of the individual. Potatoes being in good condition, and not easy to keep, they might be steamed, mashed and mixed with other ingredients, such as bacon, and pulped with a proper flavoring into a form of kale cannon, and preserved in the form of sausages. Various other combinations would easily occur to anyone understanding, experience in this direction.

ARMY COOKING.

Lieutenant Henry J. Reilly, U. S. A., also contributes to "The Journal" an instructive article on army cooking.

"In the field, in camp," he says, "the rations are cooked for each company by men detailed for the purpose, and similar results follow. If the cooks know their business the rations are well cooked and palatable; the men are contented, the sick report has but few names on it, and their duty is easily and readily done. If there are no good cooks in the company, underdone pork, sodden beans covered with greasy water for soup—and miserable coffee cause discontent, a large sick report, duty poorly done with much grumbling, and, finally, a small company, which the men are anxious to leave, and to which they never return if they can help it. In active field service, when three and five days' rations have to be carried in the haversack on long marches, or when strong picks are sent out, and each man has to cook his own food, arises the greatest difficulty. Those who have some knowledge of cooking get along very well, and utilize anything eatable they can find, while those who have not this knowledge, unless helped by their more fortunate comrades, generally fall out, and their names soon appear on the sick list."

"A GLASS OF BEER ANALYZED."

In Mr. Taylor's lecture, "A Glass of Beer Analyzed," he takes the alcohol out of the beer in the presence of the people, shows how much can be found in one glass; compares it with drug store alcohol; burns it in vapor and in an open dish; shows its action on food and in the gastric juice; uses it in cooking eggs and exploding gunpowder; tests a drunkard's breath, and hitches up and exposes sugary adulterations.

The lecture is highly commended by A. T. Dunn, D. D., the general secretary of the Maine Baptist Convention.

In substance Mr. Dunn says: "Too much praise cannot be said of the lectures given by this highly-gifted man."

Dr. Taylor wins the attention of his audience from the first and keeps it to the last. He presents the subject of scientific temperance in a way novel and interesting."

Dr. Taylor is also heartily endorsed by such men as Dr. Butler of Colby University and Drs. Pepper and Spencer of Waterville.

In many places the seating capacity of the church edifice where the lectures have been given, is taxed to its utmost limit.

THE W. R. C.

What It Is and the Noble Work It Is Doing.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier:

The story is told of two boys who were discussing the significance of our national holidays. One asked, "What is the fourth of July?" and the other answered, "Why, any fool knows that, of course; it's Washington's birthday." A parallel case came to our notice a few days ago. When riding over town in a trolley car we heard one lady say to another, "What is the W. R. C., anyway?" and we were much surprised at the prompt reply, "The Woman's Relief Corps, a temperance society, sort of an offshoot from the Christian Temperance Union." Now, for the information of those ladies and any others who may hold the same opinion, we would like to offer an explanation and set right some mistaken ideas. The Woman's Relief Corps, which is the proper rendering, is a patriotic order, which bears the same relation to the Grand Army of the Republic today that the corps of army nurses, home workers and aid societies bore to the soldiers of the civil war. It was from that practical beginning that the order sprang and spread all over the Union and was consolidated into the grand National Woman's Relief Corps, now thousands strong.

The orators tell us the date of the organization and growth of its membership with the immense amount of money it raises and expends annually for charity, in round numbers, and to those who are good at remembering statistics all these convey a tremendous story of good work. But the "how and what" is seldom told, because the work is built up of little deeds of kindness and words of love and does not make the same showing on paper upon column of members or of dollars and cents. These women are organized to relieve the wants of families of poor or suffering veterans, to assist in procuring employment and homes for their widows or children or for army nurses, and they are at all times the strong, willing auxiliary of the Grand Army, a band of earnest women bringing comfort where war wrought desolation.

It is largely due to the work of the Woman's Relief Corps that this wave of patriotism is ever at the surface, ready to overflow when our country needs defenders, for it is to these women's influence that the stars and stripes have been the flag from every schoolhouse in the land and the flag salute and patriotic teaching introduced into all schools in addition. It is a part of the pledged work to inculcate lessons of patriotism in the communities in which we live, and to perpetuate the memory of the heroic dead in the sacred observance of Memorial Day.

Memorial Day, that grand object lesson to the children of this generation, teaching them that those who died that we might have "one country, one language and one flag," will never be forgotten, but their memories kept green, up sweet with the bright blossoms of spring time.

Good moral character and loyalty to our country and its defenders are the requirements for admission into the order; race, education, politics or religion do not enter into the question.

Though it is an army, nurses and devoted helpers were not wives, mothers, sisters or daughters of the soldier the national order admits to its ranks loyal women who wish to unite in advance the good work.

"I think I'd like to join the W. R. C.," said one bright young woman, "for there is no class of men I respect above the old soldiers, and none for whom I would so gladly work." It is from such women of loyal hearts that the ranks are recruited.

The order is semi-military in its ceremonies, and the services are grand and inspiring. All obligations are taken beneath the folds of "Old Glory," and there is a sacredness and dignity attending the ceremonies both solemn and impressive.

At the close of the Civil war the sight of a soldier in his faded coat of blue, or of a poor maimed victim hobbling about on crutches was sufficient to call forth a burst of patriotic enthusiasm. Every soldier was a hero, every mutilated flag a sacred trust. It has become an old story to those who have been marching along with the veterans, and the bright new flags mean as much as the tattered ones to the younger generation. When long brave boys marched away the present month with their grand record, inspiring music and waving banners history was but repeating itself. The old boys of that day were the dashing, bright young volunteers of 1861.

It will be to the Woman's Relief Corps that in the years to come will fall the work of comforting and caring for the survivors, and of keeping green the graves of the fallen honored heroes of the Spanish-American war.

Considerable excitement was stirred up last evening on Waverly street when Mr. Sewell, book-keeper at the Waverly mill, telephoned down to Sheriff Dunkell that a row was taking place in the vicinity of the mill. This officer quickly responded with a posse of aids and proceeding to the scene of the affray found the whole neighborhood in an uproar over the actions of Delmont Brown, who had broken into his wife's house against her wishes and was making terrific to the whole household. It seems that Brown came home in April and left his family and his wife had applied for a divorce. In the meantime living with her son, on Waverly street. Yesterday Brown returned and forced an entrance to the house and drove the entire family out of doors through fear of his actions. Last night he again appeared at the house and finding the door locked broke it in, tearing away the casement and otherwise damaging the building. The officers were about to arrest the man when his brother came to his rescue and promised to take care of him. Later in the evening he was again found on the premises when Officer Kimball took him, but upon Brown promising to go away he again released him. He has not been seen since.
